

Unclaimed Recoveries contacted me about two years ago. I was very skeptical and checked them out through a lawyer and also tried to find the unclaimed recovery myself to no avail. I had a lot going on at the time but I would hear from them on a regular basis and as always they were very polite. Finally last month I felt I did my homework so I signed the paperwork and sent the information back that they requested. I figured they did not ask for my SS #, date of birth or what I felt was very personal information. They already had my physical address, e-mail and phone number. After I sent in the paperwork I received a check for over $8000.00 about 6 days later. I was still very skeptical but I took it to my bank to deposit and they said it certainly looked good and to call them in five days to make sure the check cleared. I'm now happily paying off bills and making a few splurges. It was a very pleasant experience and went off without a hitch.

Sincerely,

Julie Paille
